CZAR NICHOLAS UNLUCKY WITH THE JAPANESE

LEHBERG, Galicia, Feb. 18.—The newspaper "Slovo Polskie" states that "Czar Nicholas is ill and exceedingly depressed over the war. His majesty was recently heard to remark:

"I am unlucky with the Japanese. My ill-luck began when I was Carewicz, and was attacked by a Japanese soldier."

PFLUG REPORTS QUIET ABOUT PORT ARTHUR

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 18.—Major General Pflug, chief of staff at Port Arthur, reports that the city is tranquil and that the situation is unchanged. He also reports that the Yalu district is peaceful, and that none of the enemy can be found within forty miles of the Russian encampment.

"UNPREPARED FOR WAR." WAILS STRICKEN RUSSIA

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 18.—The government of Russia has issued a proclamation setting forth the fact that Russia was not prepared for the breaking out of hostilities with Japan when they first occurred, and stating that time will be necessary to get the forces in proper position before a definite victory for Russian arms can be looked for.

The proclamation, after speaking of the "indignation" against Japan for breaking off the negotiations and precipitating hostilities, says:

"The unity and strength of the Russian people leave no room for doubt that Japan will receive the chastisement she deserves for her treachery and provocation of war at a time when our sovereign was anxious to maintain peace among the nations. The conditions under which hostilities are being carried on force us to await with patience news of the success of our troops, which cannot take place before decisive battles are fought by the Russian army."

"The distance of the territory and the desire of the Emperor that peace be maintained were the causes of the impossibility of more complete and earlier preparations for war."

"REAL ATTACK WILL SURPRISE THE WORLD"

CHEEFOO, China, Feb. 18.—The Japanese plan, it is asserted, is to continue to harass Port Arthur from the sea, until they are ready to begin the land campaign.

The Japanese say the attacks thus far have been merely skirmishes, though they have proved unexpectedly successful. The world will be surprised when the real attack comes.

Mr. Douglass warned the jury not to pay too much attention to the testimony of the Postoffice inspectors, as they were "like hounds after a rat, willing to secure conviction by any means, or foul." It was to the interest and it was the business of the inspectors to convict. Inspector Mayer purposely refrained from taking down the statements of the Groffs. Mayer's integrity was not above suspicion, and his words should be weighed with the greatest caution.

Tullis' Accuracy Questioned.

The honesty and integrity of Mr. Tullis, the stenographer who took down Machen's statement the day he was arrested, was not in question, but he was inaccurate, and in one place the typewritten statement showed an affirmative, but the original notes showed a negative. The speaker did not wish to impugn the honesty of anyone, but it was his duty to show that the inspectors who had been most active in working up the charges against Machen are now occupying better paid and more responsible positions than they had before.

Machen's duties as general superintendent of free delivery were described, and Mr. Douglass insisted that there was nothing wrong in the fact that Miss Liebhart signed Machen's initials to the mail.

Mr. Wynne's Duty.

Mr. Wynne was Machen's superior, and it was his duty to have inspected his mail. Mr. Wynne had allowed Machen to spend $10,000 after he suspected Machen of being "crooked." The excuse was that an investigation was expected, but that was no ground for allowing Machen to spend money if Mr. Wynne thought it was going out improperly.

"You can't explain it," said Mr. Douglass. "There is a skeleton in the closet and somebody has been behind the whole thing. You may study for weeks and weeks, but will not find out why the inspectors went into Machen's record alone."

"Court Investigation"

"Mr. Wynne allowed a man he thought dishonest to spend $10,000. Is there anything to compare with that in Machen's career?" Machen sent to the auditor's office an official statement, especially investigating the free delivery division. What more ludicrous could be imagined than that a man would turn on the light with one hand and with the other try to get his hand into the public pocket. All through the trial there have been threads of insinuation, and they have been throwing mud on this defendant."

J. J. Howley, chief clerk to First Assistant Wynne, was attacked, and Mr. Douglass said Howley and Wynne were as nice a pair as the case could produce.

An "Acrobatic Feature"

The explanation by Mr. Purdy that Machen reduced the price of fasteners in order to cover the tracks of a conspiracy was "the most acrobatic feature of the case," said Mr. Douglass. It was an absurdity, for had Machen been in a conspiracy he would have used his power to keep the price up instead of to put it down. The explanation of Mr. Purdy was another instance of mere suspicion and cruel innuendo.

The bringing in of the evidence concerning the Miller fastener was useless and unnecessarily prejudicial, as the defense had shown that Miller not only did not have a patent, but had not applied for one. His presence on the stand was a confession of weakness upon the part of the prosecution.

Absence of all concealment in the transactions was urged as a powerful piece of evidence in favor of the defense.

That concluded the remarks of E. S. Douglass, and Samuel Maddox, special counsel for the Groffs, then addressed the jury.

Court then adjourned until 1:30.

MAP OF KOREA, SHOWING POINTS OCCUPIED BY JAPAN'S LAND FORCES

BACKBONE OF COLD PROBABLY BROKEN

Weather Bureau Counts on Warmer Days and Nights.

COLDEST FEBRUARY KNOWN

Last Month Also Coldest January in Thirty-four Years, With One Exception.

The Weather Bureau believes the backbone of the cold weather has been broken, that from now on the days and nights will be warmer.

So far, however, the month has been one of the worst known. The thermometer has been down "in its boots" for so long that one does not know how to prepare for the warmer weather that was predicted by the Weather Bureau today.

Exceptionally Cold Weather.

If February keeps up its average, therefore, it will be the coldest month in the history of the Weather Bureau. So far, there have been but three days when the thermometer registered above the freezing point in its average, and only six in its maximum temperatures.

The mercury has gone down to 2 above zero, and has remained persistently below the freezing point for a longer period of time than has been known for years. But twice since the 8th has it gone above this point, even during the warmest moments of the day, and since the 7th at least twenty hours out of the twenty-four have been so cold that the thermometer was below this point at which water congeals.

Seasonal Average.

The maximum average is only 37, but 2 degrees higher than the seasonal should be, while the real average for the sixteen days just past is 22, or 13 degrees lower than the month usually is. The minimum average is 18, or about one-half of what the seasonal average should be.

Last month was the coldest January in eleven years, and with one exception the coldest in thirty-four years. It was a month when the average was but 27, or 6 degrees colder than usual, while February, which has a higher seasonal average, is 5 degrees colder still, and the coldest so far in the thirty-four years during which official records have been kept.

DOUBLE ELOPEMENT LONG KEPT A SECRET

Mothers of Runaway Brides Give Party to Break News.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 18.—Mrs. George M. Winslow gave a Valentine party at her Elm Street home to tell the guests that her daughter and her daughter's friend had had their hearts pierced by Cupid's dart two months before St. Valentine's Day.

Miss Ruth Miner Winslow and her friend, Bertha Roach, eloped and were secretly married in New York city, January 21. Miss Winslow was married to Edward Roach. Miss Roach's brother, and Miss Roach was married to Burton Fenton Judd. The ceremony was performed in the Little Church Around the Corner by the Rev. Dr. Houghton, up with the wedding parties and assisted in receiving the congratulations of the guests.

SUES FOR WAGES.

Philip Tolson has begun proceedings in the admiralty branch of the District Supreme Court against the sloop Euola, to recover $35, said to be due him as wages as cook. The sloop is an oyster boat, in charge of G. D. Hill, and is engaged in traffic between Point Lookout, Md., and Washington.

COLD WEATHER STOPS TRAFFIC

Business on the Potomac Practically Suspended.

SIDE-WHEELERS ARE TIED UP

Biggest Vessels Many Hours Late—Oystermen Getting Scarce and Trade Is Crippled.

The continued cold weather has had the effect of tying up navigation on the Potomac for several miles below Washington. No side-wheelers can move, and it is with difficulty that the larger craft, such as the Norfolk and Washington steamers and the mail boats, can break through the ice.

The Norfolk steamer was three hours late this morning, and the Estelle Randall came in behind her schedule time yesterday on account of getting stuck in the ice near Fort Washington. Part of her sheathing had been ripped off by the ice, and it was with difficulty that she made her way up to the city.

Waiting on Thaw.

The Norfolk steamer due yesterday morning did not get up until the afternoon, and had to be helped out of an ice jam between Halloway Point and Craney Island by the steamer Newport News.

Harbor Master Sutton says he can do nothing until the ice begins. The ice has formed heavily between the Long Bridge and the forks of the channel, and the fleet of ice-breaking tugs is powerless.

The navy yard tugs and the big boats are doing all the keeping open that is possible. Mr. Sutton anticipates no trouble as a result of present conditions, but admits that he will have to sit still and wait for warmer weather before he can do anything.

Oystermen Crippled.

Oyster dealers declare that if the present weather conditions continue their business will be crippled.

Because of the cold oysters have gone in the past week from $1 a gallon to $1.30, $1.40, and today they are $1.50, with a fair show to demand even a heavier price before many days.

The difficulty lies not only in the inability of the Washington and Norfolk boats to make their way up the Potomac, but the oyster beds are frozen over and the men are experiencing great difficulty in working in the bay.

Some of the local supply is obtained from New York and some by rail from other points, but even this means is not sufficient to avert the threatening scarcity of oysters and consequent increase in price.

WILLS OF TWO DECEDENTS ARE FILED FOR PROBATE

Two wills were offered for probate today. John Curtis, by his will dated September 24, 1900, leaves premises, 1118, 1120 and 1122 Twenty-first Street northwest, to his wife, Mary Ann Curtis, for life. Upon her death the property is to revert to Marguerite Curtis and her children.

To Michael Curtis, a son, is left house 1124 Twenty-first Street. Premises 1146 Fifteenth Street northwest, 1115 and 1117 Twenty-first Street, are left to Thomas E. Vaggaman, in trust for Marguerite Curtis.

By her will dated February 8, inst., Elizabeth Ann Major, leaves her estate to Mary E. Woodruff and Laura V. Stewart.

SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD.

George A. Benedict today entered suit against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company to recover $10,000 for personal injuries. Douglas & Douglas and Conrad Sney are named as counsel for the plaintiff.

MORE POWER FOR DISTRICT BOARD

Bill Giving Authority to Regulate Food Supplies.

SWEEPING PROVISIONS

Another Measure Introduced in Senate Relating to Contracts for Work Less Than $500.

Larger powers are proposed to be conferred on the District Commissioners by the introduction of two bills introduced in the Senate today by Mr. Gallinger. Both are indorsed by the District Commissioners. They are as follows:

A bill in relation to contracts with the District of Columbia.

A bill authorizing the District Commissioners to make regulations respecting public hay scales, "and for other purposes." Under the last phrase are included a half dozen items of special interest.

Limitation of Contracts.

The first bill is for the purpose of enabling the Commissioners to enter into contracts up to the sum of $500 without requiring a formal contract and bond. The present limit is $100. "Experience has shown," the Commissioners say in the letter of transmittal, "that the District can with absolute safety enter into agreements with contractors to do work" up to the proposed new limit of expenditure, and for this reason the change is requested.

The second bill is to confer on the Commissioners as great authority to deal with the various subjects enumerated as is now possessed by them in relation to plumbing, police regulations, and other questions of an administrative nature, in which changing conditions must be met by prompt measures not specifically covered by the law.

Additional Powers.

The additional powers asked for cover the following items:

To make regulations and prescribe penalties for their violation in regard to the sealing, inspection, and repair of hay scales; the inspection and sealing of bottles used in the distribution and sale of milk and cream; the sale of lubricating and illuminating oils, the sale and inspection of flour, provisions, and produce of all kinds; the inspection of lumber and wood, the sale of the rights and privileges of the fish wharf, and "the sale by weight or measure of provisions or produce by weights or measures, or by inaccurate weights or measures containing less than the proper quantity."

The bills were referred to the District Committee.

CASH SUMS WANTING FOR CHICAGO POSTOFFICE

Special Legislation May Be Needed to Meet Exigencies of Situation.

First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne is still in Chicago, and it is not expected that he will be able to return to this city till next Tuesday, owing to the many difficulties to be straightened out in the affairs of the Chicago office.

One of the difficulties encountered is the need of more money for the service there, and as the department has only about $2,000 unexpended balance with which to work on matters concerning city stations, and is compelled to ask for a deficiency appropriation of something like $50,000, there is some chance of Chicago's falling to get all it asks, unless it can get a special appropriation through Congress, which effort will doubtless be made after Mr. Wynne makes his report to the department.

THOUSANDS VIEW HANNA IN DEATH

Workmen Will Pay Tribute to Hanna

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 18.—From the national headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America today was issued the following to members of the union:

"As a tribute to the memory of the late M. A. Hanna and as an expression of the appreciation of the many services rendered by him to our organization, you are requested to cease work at noon on Friday, February 19, the day of his funeral."

The communication was signed by John Mitchell, president; T. L. Lewis, vice president, and W. B. Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

This order means that nearly 300,000 men are to lay down their picks tomorrow and pay such tribute as they may to the memory of the Senator.

Along the line west of Baltimore, every town had its quota of sightseers. The train did not stop. They knew it would not, and yet they stood out in the cold to get a glimpse as it passed by. At York there were unusually large crowds.

They assembled at the street crossings and filled the depot. In the station they stood on baggage trucks and improvised platforms of all sorts that they might be enabled to see through the wide windows of the observation car. The train ran through slowly, but was not stopped.

Transfer in Harrisburg.

At 10:30 o'clock there was a stop of ten minutes in the depot at Harrisburg. Hundreds of people took advantage of the opportunity to see the casket and flowers. During the night there were demonstrations at many small towns, where were groups of those who were attracted for men whose work kept them up through the night. They had known that the train was coming and had watched for it. They had an interest in viewing the casket that contained the remains of their departed friend. They were unfailing, however, in their expression of regard for him.

SENATOR HANNA'S CHAIR DRAPED IN MOURNING

The scene in the Senate chamber today was in striking contrast to that of yesterday.

There were not many Senators in their places to hear the opening prayer, and the galleries, with their handful of spectators here and there, did not relieve the appearance of barrenness.

The only outward evidences of the period of mourning over the loss of a distinguished colleague were the unusually grave demeanor of Senators, and the heavily draped chair that has been vacated by Mr. Hanna's death.

PARTY OF OFFICIALS TO ATTEND FUNERAL

The special train for the official party to attend the Hanna obsequies at Cleveland tomorrow will leave the Pennsylvania station at 6 o'clock this evening. It will consist of seven cars, five of them sleepers, one dining car, and one smoking car.

Arrival at Cleveland is scheduled for 10 o'clock tomorrow. The funeral will be held in the afternoon, and the return trip be begun at 7 p. m. Washington will be reached at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Arrangements were concluded this afternoon by Sergeant-at-Arms Randall, of the Senate, who will be in charge of the official party.

Three Cabinet officers, representing the President and his official family, will be on the train. They will be Secretaries Taft, Wilson, and Cortelyou.

Commissioner Garfield, of the Bureau of Corporations, in the Department of Commerce and Labor, will also be in the party.

Committee From Senate.

The members of the Senate Committee named by President pro tem, Frye, who will make the trip will be: Foraker, Perkins, Warren, Fairbanks, Keen, Scott, Beveridge, Kittredge, Cockrell, Bacon, Martin, and McHenry. They will be accompanied by the Secretary of the Senate, Charles G. Bennett; E. W. Layton, doorkeeper; E. L. Corning, secretary to the Sergeant-at-Arms, and several Senate attendants.

According to the list revised this afternoon, the House delegation on the trip will consist of:

Grosvener, chairman; Van Vorhis, Burton, Southard, Morgan, Beldier, Gassinger, Hildebrandt, Kyle, Snook, Nevin, Warnock, Garber, Goebel, Jackson, Kennedy, Longworth, Weems, Bartlett, Lucking, Wacey of Alabama, Dailzell, Watson, Burke, Currier, Sherman, Rodenberg, McCleary, Hemenway, and Calderhead.

OHIO FEDERAL OFFICES CLOSED FOR FUNERAL

The President today at noon issued the following executive order to govern the conduct of United States officials in Ohio tomorrow:

"As a mark of respect to the memory of the Hon. Marcus A. Hanna, late Senator of Ohio, it is hereby ordered that all Federal offices in Ohio be closed during the hours of the funeral tomorrow, Friday, February 19, at 2 p. m.

The Power of Food.

An Illinois lady who never knew what health was until she reached her seventieth year, writes an unusually convincing case of the power of proper food. She says:

"I am seventy-four years old this fall and I never had good health that I can remember since I was a child until I commenced to use Grape-Nuts four years ago."

"From the very first I could feel a new improvement and now in four years I have gained so that I do all my own work, and feel I cannot say too much in favor of Grape-Nuts and what this grand food has done for me as old as I am."

"I have recommended Grape-Nuts to several and they all have been benefited by it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The power of proper food (which means food that the stomach will digest and at the same time yields the all-necessary nutrients) is an unusually convincing case of the power of proper food, and that's the reason ten days' trial of Grape-Nuts often makes a wonder."

MCKINLEY'S BIRTH WAS JANUARY 29

Appeal to Family Bible Settles Controversy.

MR. STRAIT WAS MISTAKEN

Original Record in Hands of Relatives in Canton Remains Clear and Unmistakable.

Newton A. Strait, assistant chief of the special examination division of the Bureau of Pensions, who recently called attention to the fact that sketches in the "Congressional Directory" gave William McKinley's date of birth as February 26, has now received enough information to satisfy him that this date is incorrect.

In a statement recently published in the Times Mr. Strait pointed out that in every copy of the "Congressional Directory" published when Mr. McKinley served as a Representative from Ohio, the biographical sketch gave the date other than that celebrated by the Canton League.

Appeal to Mrs. McKinley.

Mr. Strait communicated with the adjutant general of Ohio, who had a clerk call up Mrs. McKinley by telephone, who thereupon announced that the date of Mr. McKinley's birth was given clearly and distinctly in the family Bible as January 29. Mr. Strait also received a letter from the clerk of the court of appeals at Canton in which the clerk said the family Bible containing the date of the birth of Mr. McKinley is now in the possession of Miss Helen McKinley, and that she had given the information naming January 29 as the proper date.

HEARD IN OPPOSITION TO EIGHT-HOUR BILL

Cincinnati Manufacturer Says Proposed Legislation Would Put Restriction on Adult Male Labor.

The House Committee on Labor today continued its hearings on the eight-hour bill. Ernst F. Du Brul, of Cincinnati, representing the Metal Trades Association, addressed the committee in opposition to the bill. He said that he represented besides the metal trades, many business interests of Cincinnati, as well as employers' associations.

There has been a great deal of strife in the last ten years in labor circles, he said, and this strife will continue if the eight-hour bill is passed. He said that, in some cases, this bill makes them, become the wards of the Government.

This bill has the Government do for labor, he said, what labor has been doing for itself. Sensible men will not object to limitations on child labor and on sanitary conditions for labor, he said, but sensible men will object to any legislation that puts a restriction on the labor of an adult male.

The committee also heard the following, who are opposed to the bill:

E. Hartsorn, president of the Hartshorn Shoe Roller Company, of Newark, N. J.; G. R. Howe, president of the Manufacturing Jewelers' Association, of New York, and Fred H. Larter, of New York, president of the Jewelers Board of Trade.

DUEL BY MOONLIGHT ABOUT GIRL FATAL

Two Young Kentuckians Exchange Shots at Ten Paces and One Is Mortally Wounded.

WHITESBURG, Ky., Feb. 18.—A fatal duel over a girl took place at Middle Creek, Etcher county, between Greenberry Hall and Theodore Jenkins, a lieutenant in the State militia, Tuesday night.

Jenkins it seems took a fancy to Miss Betsy Perkins, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Judge Joshua Perkins. This angered Hall, to whom the girl is said to have been engaged. After seeing the girl, he challenged her to a duel. Hall challenged him to fight. Jenkins accepted.

Attended by several friends the men repaired to the yard surrounding the dance hall and took up positions ten paces from each other. The moon gave poor light for pistol shooting, and both missed. The duel was then continued. Hall was struck in the shoulder and Jenkins in the left arm, and the third fire the soldier fell mortally wounded. Hall's third bullet having struck him in the neck, severing the spinal cord.

Hall was arrested and is in jail at Whitesburg.
